TREE WARDEN'S REPORT.

Last year no appropriation was made by the town for the care, and spraying the elm trees. But as the beetle made its appearance it was found necessary that some work should be done, and on the 5th day of July six men were put to work spraying and kept to work until August 19th, at a total cost of $390.00. The elm-leaf beetle seems to be on the wane in this part of the state. We found the same as in previous years that it was necessary to go on private grounds for the general good as well as for the protection of our trees in the streets; to give the same care and attention to the back yard as to the highway. I would recommend a small appropriation be made to carry on this work if necessary.

Through the generosity of Mr. H. H. Rogers 100 young trees were set out and most of them are doing well, a few on Washington street having died from some unknown cause. Some complaints were made as to persons being careless and allowing their horses to damage our trees, but in every case when spoken to promised that they would take more care in the future, and for that reason it is earnestly requested that all the people of Fairhaven join with the Tree Warden and render such assistance as is necessary for the better protection of our shade trees.

JOHN I. BRYANT,

Tree Warden.

SELECTMEN'S REPORT.

---

To the Citizens of Fairhaven :

The selectmen present the following report, referring to the special reports herein contained for details of each department.

Upon the petition of Herbert Parker, Attorney-General of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, at the relation of the inhabitants of the town of Fairhaven praying for the appointment of said town of Fairhaven as trustee of the Pease School Fund, it was decreed that the town of Fairhaven be appointed trustee of the Pease School Fund, created by the will of Abner Pease, duly proved and allowed.

The original amount of the fund being $5,000.00 and deposited in the New Bedford Five Cents Savings Bank, February 2d, 1882; this with the interest amounting to $7,558.12 constituted the fund on deposit October 23, 1903. The dividends amounting to $305.34 for the year 1904 were placed to the credit of the School Department.

The work of the highway as usual has been very satisfactory, the special report of the Assistant-Superintendent giving the details. A notable feature of this work is the care given to gutters and street cleaning, and the prompt use of the snow plough on sidewalks.

In estimating the expenditures for 1905 the following items are noted :

Estimated amount of interest due,	$3,926.87
Laurel street sewer note, due Oct. 20, 1905,	$800.00
Christian street extension note, due Oct. 20, 1905,	800.00
Cottage street note, due Oct. 20, 1905,	850.00
Pease district sewer note, due Nov. 12, 1905,	1,500.00
	<hr/>	3,950
Bond due,		3,000.00
Total debt and interest due in 1905,	$10,876.87
Credit to debt and interest account,	3,133.28
Balance,		$7,743.59

The poor department account was overdrawn to the amount of $635.45, while there are accounts due from other towns of $462.45 for advances made on their account.

Concerning the appropriation of $800 for Sycamore street extension, it was not found necessary to make this loan.

The Selectmen would suggest that an appropriation of $6,000 be made for debt and interest, there being as shown above to the credit of this account the sum of $3,133.28. These sums together with the estimated collection of $2,000 on account of sewer assessments will furnish the required amount to meet the needs of debt and interest.

The Selectmen respectfully submit the following estimates for appropriations for the ensuing year :

	Approp. for 1904.	Estimates, 1905.
Highway account,	$3,000	$3,000
Poor department,	2,800	2,600
Sewer maintenance,	2,400	2,500
Fire department,	1,400	1,600
Hydrants,	2,150	2,175

Police,	$800	$900
Town Hall,	1,000	1,500
Fire Alarm maintenance,	150	150
Salaries,	2,500	2,500
Street lights,	1,600	1,800
Debt and interest,	8,000	6,000
	<hr/>	<hr/>
	$25,800	$24,725

REPORT

OF THE

Sewer Commissioners.

REPORT OF THE SEWER COMMISSIONERS.

The assessments for the half cost of the Pease District Sewerage System were levied on the abutters in July. About one-half of the amount is already collected, as shown in the collector's report.

At a special town meeting held July 21st, the general act of Legislature, Sec. 49, was adopted.

At this town meeting the Commissioners were authorized and instructed to proceed with the construction of a gravity sewerage system at Oxford Village, with an outfall near the intersection of Cherry street and Pilgrim avenue. Plans were submitted to the State Board of Health and they advised carrying the outfall into deep water, south or southeast of "the Point."

On Sept. 6, the actual work of construction commenced. Before extreme weather put an end to the work, the sewers had been laid in Cherry, Cook, North, Oxford, Lafayette, Main, and West streets. The outlet had been carried across the shore to low water, a trestle wharf built, and the iron pipe laid on it and calked in preparation for lowering. The system has been in use since the middle of November and there are now about twenty abutters connected.

The Commissioners regret very much that they must ask a further appropriation for this system, but the increased length of outfall required by the State Board of Health makes it necessary. They think that $1,000 will provide for all contingencies and leave a balance.

The Shone system is working as heretofore. No extensions have been made last year, but it is apparent that some will be required this season in Bridge and Green streets.

The increase in capacity of the power plant spoken of as a necessity last year is not of immediate urgency, but becomes more so as each year goes by. The Commissioners do not advise immediate action however.

Forty-six connections have been made this year, making a total of four hundred and forty-seven.

The Commissioners recommend the appropriation of $2,500 this year for maintenance of sewers.

Respectfully submitted,

E. G. PAULL,
GEO. T. THATCHER,

Sewer Commissioners.

REPORT
BOARD OF HEALTH.

REPORT OF BOARD OF HEALTH OF FAIRHAVEN.

To the Citizens of Fairhaven, the Board of Health respectfully submits its annual report for the year 1904.

The Board organized in March, 1904, with the choice of Charles P. Maxfield, as chairman, Joseph B. Peck, as secretary, and Dr. Wm. H. Thayer as medical inspector.

There have been reported to the Board during the last twelve months, eleven cases of contagious and infectious diseases, viz :

3 typhoid fever,
5 scarlet fever,
2 measles,
1 diphtheria.

This shows a decrease in number of twenty-one cases in comparison with last year. There were no deaths from contagious diseases during the year.

There were fifteen complaints of nuisances, which upon notice were promptly abated.

During the past year there have been inspected, as the law directs, 172 slaughtered animals, viz :—

163 hogs,
3 cows,
4 oxen,
1 calf,
1 bull.

Mr. E. G. Grinnell inspected at the general inspection, the following animals, viz :—

438 cows,
81 young cattle,
6 bulls.

No cases of the Foot and Mouth disease have been found within our jurisdiction the past year.

The Board recommends, as before, that the Town license some responsible person to collect the swill and garbage, at least twice a week, from the residences of those who make application to him. Water-tight cans should be used in removing said garbage.

No license was granted to any person or place where the Jews could slaughter, under the license of others; we recommend the same condition continue.

At the annual Town meeting, the Town voted that no swine be kept within the district bounded by the following:

North, by Bridge street,
East, by Adams street,
South, by Church street,
West, by the Acushnet River.

There have been but two cases known to the Board, and they were promptly removed upon notice.

The Board would recommend that the Town provide a suitable building on the outskirts of the Town, for the purpose of placing suspects of Small Pox and those who have that most dreaded disease for proper treatment, as we may at any time be compelled to have need of the same, and we have no place to quarantine a patient in case of an emergency.

CHARLES P. MAXFIELD,
JOSEPH B. PECK,
WILLIAM H. THAYER, M. D.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT FOR THE YEAR ENDING DEC. 31, 1904

To the Trustees of The Millicent Library:

I have the honor to present the librarian's report for 1904.

Growth in Volumes

The additions for the year number 877 volumes; 754 by purchase, 24 by gift and 99 by the binding of periodicals. 370 volumes were withdrawn, leaving a net increase of 507 which added to <sup>1</sup>16,958, the actual number in the building Dec. 31, 1903, makes the present total <sup>2</sup>17,465.

The most extensive purchases were in fiction, of which 312 volumes out of the 877 were added. The next largest class was fine arts 127; then travel and history 85; bound periodicals and bibliography 83; literature 80; biography 63; science and nature study 19, etc. 152 volumes were assigned to the young people's room. Of the 877 volumes added, 538 are entirely new works, technically called new titles, and 164 are additional volumes, as the second of a cyclopedia or the 106th of Harper's magazine; these together make 702 volumes of new matter. The remaining 175 volumes are additional copies, or duplicates, in fiction alone 147 such duplicates being required.

Registration

340 persons have received borrower's cards; adult residents of Fairhaven 185, of school age 104; residents of New Bedford 20, and of other places 31. These 340 names added to the 1,842 reported on Dec. 31, 1903, make 2,182 registered since May 1, 1902. The total number in Fairhaven is 1,773, which among a population of 3,750 is 47% and is hardly surpassed in the country.

Age Limit

The age limit of 11 years was removed under conditions on December 3d by the addition of an exception to the by-laws, so that the section concerning borrowers now reads:

All inhabitants of the town of Fairhaven of eleven years of age and upwards shall have the right to visit and use the library building and to take books therefrom under such regulations as the book committee under the direction of the board of trustees determine; except that persons under eleven years may enjoy these privileges upon recommendation of the superintendent or one of the principals of the public schools and with the approval of the librarian.

One Reader's Card

A change from two readers cards to one has met with general approval. When two books only were issued to a reader two cards were furnished him, one for fiction, the other for non-fiction, so that if the cards were left undisturbed they came back to the library in the proper volumes. When, however, borrowers' privileges were increased to include any reasonable number of books, the simple, "card to each volume," ceased to be practicable and it was deemed best, after careful consideration and extended consultation with readers, to use but one card, distinguishing the three broad classes of loans from one another by varying on the card the positions of the dates charging the three classes. So that now the date charging a volume of fiction is stamped in the most natural place, the upper left part of the card; the date for non-fiction is turned upside down; and that for current periodicals is placed in the lower right hand corner, successive charges working upward.

The number of <sup>3</sup>volumes issued was 46,614 making the largest circulation for nine years excepting 1903. The largest day was Jan. 30, 252 volumes; the smallest July 4th, 51. The issues on Thanksgiving and Christmas were 123 and 85 respectively, and on Sundays exceeded as a rule all days but Saturdays and Mondays. The average daily circulation was 127; and <sup>4</sup>per capita 12.4.

Small collections on such subjects as "Old days in the colonies," "Patriotism and civic ideals" and "Books for home lovers" have been exhibited on the ends of the loan desk. They have taken the place in a smaller way of the broader collections in the rotation case for which other demands were imperative.

Shelf Numbers

Experiments covering more than a year have shown the superiority of lettering applied directly to the binding. On light bindings Higgins' black waterproof ink is used, and David's white letterine on dark. When thoroughly dried, the lettering is protected by a thin coat of white shellac, with which bindings in any way delicate are entirely coated. All recent accessions and several thousand older books have been thus treated to our complete satisfaction.

Publications

Three full bulletins including all additions have been issued, and three small select reading-lists on Cookery, The flower garden, and Birds; and a set of 80 subjects for summer reading.

Book and Picture Exhibits

During the two weeks preceding Christmas some 80 new books suitable for gifts were on exhibition.

A. L. A. Catalog

During the year the Library of Congress in Washington has printed a catalog of 8000 volumes selected by members of the American Library Association as those which form the best rounded small library. Seventenths of these books The Millicent Library owns and the purchase of the remainder it will be glad to consider. The selection is a very careful one and the character of a majority of the books is made clear by descriptive and critical notes. These features combined make the A. L. A. Catalog as it is called, a most trustworthy guide to one's reading, and numerous copies of the complete volume of 900 pages have been put in circulation. It is hoped that the section of literature including 1,200 volumes of fiction may shortly be distributed free to readers as annotated catalogs of books always to be had in the library.

Card Catalog

The card catalog is and can be the only complete and up-to-date catalog and must be consulted by anyone wishing to know exactly what the library contains. Most of the cards now being added are clearly and beautifully printed in Washington and bought from the Library of Congress for less than they can be typewritten, 1,712 having been purchased for $15.27. Since the fall of 1901 when this library was the 14th to subscribe for these cards, 425 other libraries have added their names to the list, and all are finding their patrons much pleased with their neat appearance and accuracy. 5,820 Cleveland-Pittsburgh cards analyzing selected books for young people have been received to complete the set, which is a most valuable key to juvenile literature.

Changes in Staff

On Jan. 4, 1905, Miss Frances H. Fuller resigned the position of children's librarian which for two years she had occupied with marked success, to accept a similar office in The City Library of Springfield, Mass. Miss Fuller came to Fairhaven to give particular attention to work with the young people and to build up the apparatus of catalogs and the collection of books for its effective continuance; for which her earnestness, broad experience and ready sympathy admirably fitted her.

And on February 21, Miss Eda M. Perry of the Pratt Institute Free Library, Brooklyn, took up this work. Miss Perry whose home is in the nearby town of Monument Beach, completed partial courses in the Bridge-water normal school, taught for several years, graduated from the Pratt Institute library school, and for two years past has been on the staff of the free public library connected with the institution.

In general, the work of the library has gone on progressively. It is filling the place it should better than a year ago. Its staff has steadily increased in efficiency, and its collections of books in value and range, both for general and reference use; many questions can be answered now, and many subjects set forth which a year ago were unprovided for. The card-holders are more numerous, and while the circulation has fallen off, the fact that the number of volumes in circulation at any one moment and the average number of days a volume is held have both increased, show that actually more hours are spent in reading the library's books and probably more thought given to what is read. In short, the community's reading seems to be in a healthier condition.

To the Board I have to express my sincere appreciation of their continued courtesy and support, and to the staff hearty thanks for their coöperation and assistance.

Respectfully submitted,

DREW B. HALL,

Librarian.

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE

To the Citizens of Fairhaven :

Emerson has said, "I praise New England, because it is the country in the world where is the freest expenditure for education. The poor man, whom the law does not allow to take an ear of corn when starving, nor a pair of shoes for his freezing feet, is allowed to put his hand into the pocket of the rich, and say, you shall educate me, not as you will but as I will; not alone in the elements, but by further provision, in the languages, in science, in the useful and in elegant arts. The child shall be taken up by the state, and taught, at the public cost, the rudiments of knowledge, and at last, the ripest results of art and science." This terse and complete statement by one of New England's greatest thinkers was made many years ago, since then Massachusetts' laws have made school attendance compulsory. These sentiments then expressed have become an article of faith on the part of the people all through the more intelligent part of our nation.

Again the same author says : "We are apt to teach boys to be such men as we are. We do not teach them to aspire to be all they can. We do not give them training as if we believed in their noble nature. We scarce educate their bodies, we do not train the eye and the hand. We exercise their understandings to the apprehension and comparison of some facts, to a skill in numbers, in words; we aim to make accountants, attorneys, engineers; but not to make able, earnest, great-hearted men. The great object of education should be commensurate with the object of life. It should be a moral one; to teach self-trust; to inspire the youthful man with an interest in himself; with a curiosity touching his own nature; to acquaint him with the resources of his mind, and to teach him that there is all his strength, and to inflame him with a piety towards the Grand Mind in which he lives."

We believe that all those who have to do with the education of our young people cannot but feel inspired by this grand portrayal of true education. Probably at no time since its utterance has there been such a general desire for its adoption in our schools as at the present time.

We have no sympathy with that system of education which turns out graduates from our schools like the manufactured products from some machine.

Nature in her workshop abhors duplicates. Infinite variety is the great, natural law in both animal and vegetable life. Search the world of mankind over and no two people can be found who are alike in appearance, disposition or mind, or whose mission in life is precisely the same. The wise Creator has apparently provided a work or duty for each one to do in his own way. Is it not the mission of all educational forces to develop the powers of the boy and girl in order that their peculiar and better qualities may become dominant forces by the aid of which their better selves shall be brought to the front; thus making themselves important and useful factors in the life of the community?

In relation to the common saying, "give us principles, not men," the late Rev. Phillips Brooks says, that men cannot so easily be brushed one side, for principles are of little or no value unless made alive by their embodiment in the minds and hearts of men who thereby become a powerful force in the nation's life.

Your committee believe that our schools under the care of our efficient superintendent and teachers are gradually working in the direction indicated in the foregoing, and that the education of the hand and eye by the establishment of the manual training and cooking schools and the school gardens has not only proved of great value in and of itself, but it has also given an impetus to a greater interest in other studies found in the curriculum of the schools.

We feel that all our citizens may have a pardonable pride, when among all the school gardens in Massachusetts, the Fairhaven school garden takes the first prize for beauty, arrangement and neatness.

A writer on finance, in speaking of the importance of our own country among the other nations of the world, says, that "the wealth of this nation amounts to $150,000,000,000, a sum too vast for any mind to conceive of, but the successful education of the children in our country so that they may become worthy and useful citizens of this great republic would be a matter of far greater importance than the country's wealth, and the means of this nation's attainment to a more exalted position among the other nations of the world."

Your committee recommend for school purposes for the ensuing year an appropriation, the same as last year, of $16,750.

COMPARATIVE FINANCIAL STATEMENT

A glance at the figures below shows that the total expenditures for 1904 fell but little short of the total estimate, though the two items of books and supplies, and repairs together, exceeded their estimates by about $300, which amount was borrowed from the estimate for teachers' salaries. This involved the carrying over to next year's account the amount of a teachers' pay roll ($272) of one week. This amount together with the salary of an additional teacher for next year makes a larger estimate for salaries necessary.

Highest per cent. of attendance, Fall Term, 97, { Rogers School, Grade 5.
 { Rogers Annex, Grade 2.

I have to mention but little which is new concerning the educational affairs of Fairhaven, but rather submit to you a brief report of progress in the various branches of your school system, which by recent additions and extensions has become fairly complete.

Statistics show that 831 pupils were enrolled during the Fall term, and these have been distributed as follows :

Eighty-nine (89) were registered at the High school, where conditions are still crowded and unsatisfactory. The number at the Rogers school has reached 402, filling the eight rooms and compelling the use of the Assembly Hall for a regular class-room, and also for sewing classes. The Rogers School Annex has cared for 159 children, the limit of the building. The four rooms at Oxford have been full with 156 enrolled in the first six grades. The New Boston school accommodates 25 pupils in the first four grades.

From Oxford, pupils in grades 7, 8, 9, and from New Boston, grades 5-9 are transported to the Rogers school; while all the pupils in the Nasketucket and Sconticut Neck districts attend the Central schools. These pupils being scattered among the 13 rooms already maintained, do not call for any increased teaching force, while the expense for transportation is less than the cost of maintaining schools in these localities.

As anticipated last year, extensive repairs upon the Rogers school boiler, which had done good service for 20 years, were necessary. Besides the rebuilding of the mason work in front of the boiler and in the fire-boxes, the State Inspector ordered new valves and appliances in order to meet the Massachusetts laws. Similar requirements were made upon the Oxford boiler, which, after testing, was found to need new tubes throughout. While it was announced and expected that a special appropriation would be needed for these unusual repairs, it has been possible by cutting other departments to pay these repair bills from the regular appropriation.

In addition to the regular indirect heat, coils of pipes for steam direct from the boiler have been placed in the two northrooms at Oxford so that adequate heat has been furnished for the entire building. The expense for repairs has been further increased by fitting the Rogers school hall with desks and blackboards.

The school department is indebted to the street department for material and labor in improving the walks at the High school; and is under obligation to the Educational Art Club which has continued its good work in making school rooms more wholesome and attractive.

To those who look upon school conditions from the distance, or those who occasionally visit schools, there may seem but little change from year to year; yet a little comparison and reflection reveals evident advancement, though this progress has often been made in spite of drawbacks and obstacles which militate against anything like ideal work or results in the schools.

Should we stop to consider the difficulties encountered by the parent in the management of two or three children, and then contemplate a teacher in charge of a room full, (40 or 50) of other people's children, irregularly developed mentally and physically, some dwarfed by overwork or poor nourishment, some who on account of irregular attendance, general indifference or inability, have dragged through the previous year and are repeating the grade, and sometimes the incorrigible, who has never known control by love or force, there would be more wonder that so much is accomplished, and less impatience because all children are not regularly and evenly advanced, regardless of attendance, indolence, or physical condition. Were it not for the larger and more hopeful class, which, having had better training and home influences, helps to lift and leaven, it would be impossible to hope for even fair results.

At this time when some of our ward statesmen in various municipalities are crying about "fads" in the public schools, hoping that by cutting out various branches more money may be available for their own pet schemes, it may not be untimely to state that we have no "fads" in the school system of Fairhaven: nor have the people acquired the fad of talking about such fads. We do have drawing, music, manual training, sewing, cooking, and school gardening. However, these like the older, better known subjects are so organized and presented as to furnish genuine training and development for the child, and give as never before, the opportunity to "put the whole boy to school."

The child of today is entitled to the aesthetic and cultural values derived from drawing and music, and to the eminently practical and vitalizing effects of such subjects as sewing, manual training, cookery or school gardening, whereby boys and girls discover that they can execute mental orders—can do things—generating interest and enthusiasm which, thus aroused, often leaks over into the more formal, less attractive work.

For a moment the subject of school gardens seemed to some absurd, but when results appeared and the effect upon the children noted, to say nothing of the local pride and loyalty that was engendered among them by winning the first prize from the Massachusetts Horticultural Association, the doubts disappeared.

In spite of the occasional cry of the unsympathetic or uninformed, who like to indulge in such phrases as: "too much fancy work," "don't emphasize the essentials" "back to the rudiments," etc., the standard of teachers and teaching, as well as results accomplished, has never been higher.

It has never been possible to get any definite statements as to what constitutes these so-called "rudiments," but the schools of Fairhaven are proceeding on the plan which makes possible, not only a knowledge of the "tools of education" (the 3 Rs), but also an opportunity to use these tools in acquiring a more all round elementary education than was formerly hoped for or considered necessary.

In the time once spent in learning the alphabet and the spelling of a few small words, pupils are now learning to read and are reading two or three primers and often a first reader. As pupils advance they read far more material, and those who do not have to learn a new language read better. In fact, this has been a decade of supplementary reading from books that are rich in content and inspiration.

The English language, both spoken and written, a subject formerly unknown as a definite systematic study, but which was confined to formal English grammar, with parsing and a few meaningless rules of syntax, has now become a prominent feature in the program of all grades. The subject of arithmetic has an important place in the every day work of the schools, and while many of the irrational and obsolete topics have been eliminated from the text books, the whole subject was never taught more practically than at present. We hear occasionally about poor spelling, of which I see much, both in the case of those who were in the schools of a decade ago, and from those now in school; yet, honest efforts are constantly made to accomplish the impossible and turn out all "good spellers."

However, in spite of efforts on the part of the schools, we shall continue to have a few pupils who cannot learn to spell or solve problems in arithmetic; and others who will not make the necessary mental effort to be accurate in any subject. Such cases of deficiency and inaccuracy become more numerous and glaring in a graded system where all children of school age are under compulsory attendance laws; but should not be used as criteria in judging the standard of the schools.

Great advance has been made in regard to the time and place which has been allotted to geography and history. Not long ago it was thought sufficient to teach the states and countries, with their boundaries, capitals, chief cities and with little else. The new geography treats of the earth in its relation to man and his various activities, connects the different countries and their capitals by commercial routes and political interests, comparing their industries, and understanding something of the physical features with their relation to production and transportation, the subject as thus presented being fruitful and no longer an empty shell.

The subject of history was usually taught only in the upper grades, and then paragraph by paragraph was learned by rote and thus recited. In no other branch has there been greater improvement in text books, both in subject matter and accurate illustration. From the study of Columbus, the Indians and the Pilgrims, in the lower grades, the children, by means of surprisingly interesting stories and textbooks, are led through the thrilling history of our country, gaining considerable knowledge of the cause and sequence of events, and learning to love the heroes and the principles for which they contended. In the highest grades our country's history is studied with some correlation with its English sources, where lies the background and roots of many of our institutions. Surely, if the increased experience and conscientious efforts which are being applied to teaching reading, spelling, language, arithmetic, geography and history do not approach the so-called essentials and rudiments, they at least furnish a rich field from which the normal child may gain a fair elementary education.

We are able to report that excellent opportunities are still offered at the High school, and, in most cases, pupils are appreciating these advantages for extended training and mental development. It was a source of no little satisfaction to have so large a first year class, thirty-seven entering in September.

After carefully investigating the standard of the school, the New England College Entrance Certificate Board, which represents nearly all New England colleges, has placed the Fairhaven High school upon the approved list, and here it will remain until our graduates fail to do honest and effective work after they have once been admitted to the college classes. Recently Vassar College has granted the certificate privilege for a term of three years. The maintenance of this high standard will not involve overstrain in school work, but will require faithful daily attention to school business, with energies unimpaired by too many outside demands and diversions.

The plan, which was adopted by your Board, providing for half day sessions and smaller divisions of the larger first grades was begun in September and has been carried on during the year without friction and with benefit to the children. Attendance has been more regular, pupils have worked in less crowded rooms and have had greater personal attention from the teacher, thus accomplishing fully as much work as formerly and have had the other half of the day in which to grow normally, and play naturally. I feel that the plan, from all points of view is wise and suggest its continuance.

The general work of the year has been carried on quietly and as efficiently as necessary limitations would allow. Whatever results have been accomplished have been due to an earnest, well equipped body of teachers, the large majority of whom have been serving the town with increasing ability for two or more years.

The cordial support and confidence of your Board has, at all times, been appreciated.

Respectfully,

FRANK M. MARSH,

Superintendent of Schools.

REPORT OF THE SUPERVISOR OF MUSIC

Mr. F. M. Marsh, Superintendent of Schools.

DEAR SIR:—I submit, as requested, the following report in music.

In the first place, I wish to speak of the individual singing. This line of work was started last year, the pupils taking it up with much interest, and a good beginning was made. This year the results have been exceedingly gratifying, especially in the primary grades. By this method the pupil feels that the music is a part of the individual work, and that he cannot escape, consequently it requires closer attention than when he was simply one of a number with opportunities to shirk.

Although the individual singing has by no means reached perfection, we hope and feel that we are working toward that much desired end.

In all grades the pupils show great interest in their work and are ready and willing at each lesson to strive for the best results possible.

In the fourth grade new books were much needed this year, and the new First Reader of the Educational Series was introduced. This book contains many of the beautiful poems of Robert Louis Stevenson, Jean Ingelow and others illustrating the different moods of child-life, with equally beautiful melodic settings. The exercises which precede the songs are melodious in themselves and are strong in the presentation of difficulties suited to the grade.

In the ninth grade, the young bass voices needed simple work in the F clef, so a coda, formerly used in the High school, is now being used in this class with good results.

The High school offers a strong chorus this year.

Thanking the teachers of Fairhaven for their hearty support in my work, I am

Very respectfully yours,

ANNA BAILEY TROWBRIDGE,

February 12, 1905.

Supervisor of Music.

REPORT OF THE SUPERVISOR OF DRAWING AND SEWING

Mr. Frank M. Marsh, Superintendent of Schools.

DEAR SIR:—I herewith submit my fourth annual report of the Drawing and Sewing in the Fairhaven schools.

I would like first to call attention to the constructive work in the elementary grades. It is understood that in order to grow evenly, the pupil must grow in power to execute, as well as in the power to conceive, and that as he develops constructively, he also develops mentally. Formerly the standard was excellence of execution, but now childish effort is the aim. Much of our work has been along this line, the children have been encouraged to cut freehand—with no previous drawing—various subjects: and the constructive work has been planned out in the class, the teacher not dominating, but freely guiding.

In December the Grammar grades made some interesting and attractive baskets; those with the colored raffia woven in gave a wide scope for ingenuity.

The work at the High school considering the great disadvantages under which we work has proved quite satisfactory. Leather, which is a material not too difficult for high school pupils to handle, has furnished a basis for pocket books, card cases, opera bags, etc., the designs are first outlined and then pressed and rubbed smooth with steel tools. The mechanical drawing class has been divided into three sections; besides the freshmen, one section is working from a model engine, while the third is studying architectural work.

The progress which is quite marked in many of the rooms is due to the efficient help rendered by the teachers and to them I wish to extend my thanks.

The system of sewing that was introduced last year, has been continued; the seventh grade girls are now working on their cooking caps and aprons to be used next year, drafting their own patterns when possible. In the fifth grade the boys have taken up sewing and their interest is as strong as that of the girls; we hope by June that they will be able not only to sew on buttons, but also to darn stockings and sew on patches.

Sewing is now considered as educational as any other subject in the curriculum, as it tends to train the hand as well as to develop the mind and judgment.

Yours respectfully,

ETHEL ROGERS BROWNE.

REPORT OF COOKING TEACHER

Mr. Frank M. Marsh, Superintendent of Schools:

In compliance with your request, I submit the following report of the work done in Cooking in the Fairhaven schools. The work has been carried on in the same grades as during the previous year. The pupils in the eighth grade are given thorough instruction in the principles of cookery—with a special effort to make the course both attractive and practical—for this reason only the simplest dishes are prepared—and much attention is given to serving, and care of the kitchen and utensils. The foundations of a four years course in cooking, such as the children of Fairhaven are given, cannot be too carefully laid: therefore the work in the eighth and ninth grades is perhaps the most important of all.

In the High School classes, more advanced practice work is given, and toward the end of the year, classes receive instruction in planning and carrying out menus for breakfasts, luncheons, and dinners.

Most of the pupils show a genuine interest in the work, and have made a decided advance in planning and carrying out their work.

I wish to express my appreciation of the cooperation of the superintendent, and the teachers, and to thank also those parents who have signified their interest by visiting the classes.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY ST. JOHN WILLCOX.

REPORT OF MANUAL TRAINING TEACHER

Frank M. Marsh, Superintendent of Schools:

I submit the following as my third annual report of the work in the Manual Training department.

During the first part of the year the original plan was carried out with the eighth and ninth grades and the High school pupils.

At the opening of the school year in September the seventh grade was included in the list of pupils.

This grade and the eighth grade have been following the course laid out for the first year.

Recently, however, I have thought it best to omit the last few first year models with the eighth grade and to go on with the second year work. I have no doubt this plan will prove satisfactory.

The ninth grade and High school pupils are following the course as it was originally planned.

We attempt to encourage as much original work as possible, and something has been done along this line during the year. On the whole, I can report the work in this department as progressing well and that good results are being accomplished.

I should like to make the suggestion that if time would permit, more work in mechanical drawing might be profitably done with the sixth grade, so that the pupils may learn the general principles of such drawing, and acquire more skill and accuracy in measurements.

Yours truly,

ALFRED C. COBB.
